

Robert Hanselman AIA has been actively involved in the architectural and construction industry for over forty years. He is a Florida Registered Architect and a Certified General Contractor, specializing in energy efficient construction design of residential and commercial buildings.

His education includes an AA and an AS in Building Construction from Central Florida Community College, a Bachelor of Design and a Master of Arts in Architecture from the University of Florida.

Robert is active in his professional association, the American Institute of Architects, having served in every office position of AIA Gainesville, and is presently on the Board of Directors of both AIA Gainesville and AIA Florida, the State Association component of AIA.

In addition, he is also active in the Florida Home Builders Association and the Builders Association of North Central Florida (BANCF), currently serving on the Board of Directors of BANCF.